A close-up photograph of a person's hand holding three smartphones stacked vertically. The phones are held in a way that their screens are visible, though mostly dark. The top phone is white, the middle one is silver, and the bottom one is black. The background is blurred, showing what appears to be a crowd of people. The text "You don't own your mobile phone" is overlaid in white, bold font across the center of the image.

PO Speedy was on hand to help his @CheshNWalesAAP colleagues last night with a decamp from a stolen van. There was no outrunning him 1 in custody.

Lovely, lovely boy. Stay safe you and your handler.

Final thoughts...

A mobile phone is not a right, it's a privilege.

We are all responsible for our actions.

Act with kindness and responsibility.
